Dzala General Contractor Outlines Whole-House Remodeling Approach

Dzala General Contractor LLC

October 13, 2026

TYSONS, VA — October 13, 2026 — Dzala General Contractor LLC , a licensed and insured design-build remodeling company based in Tysons, Virginia, has outlined how it plans and manages house remodeling projects for Northern Virginia homeowners renovating several rooms or an entire home at once.

According to the company, a whole-home renovation is run as one project rather than a series of separate jobs. The full scope is planned at the start under a single contract and dated schedule, one project manager oversees the work through the final walk-through, and a single in-house crew handles construction instead of rotating subcontractors.

“When rooms are renovated as separate jobs, homeowners end up coordinating the trades themselves,” said Nataliia Megreladze of Dzala General Contractor LLC. “Planning the whole house up front, with one schedule and one crew, lets us sequence the work properly and give families a clear picture of cost and timing before construction starts.”

Projects can combine kitchen, bathroom, basement, bedroom, and garage remodeling with home additions. Design focuses on open layouts, natural light, circulation, and built-in storage, with finishes coordinated across rooms. While walls are open, homeowners can also add insulation, air sealing, efficient lighting, and upgraded heating and cooling systems.

Each project begins with a free in-home consultation and a 3D design that the homeowner approves before materials are ordered. An itemized written quote fixes the scope, and later changes are priced in writing with their schedule effect. Dzala files and tracks permits, and structural and mechanical changes are inspected and signed off, so the work can later be verified by buyers, appraisers, and insurers. Framing, plumbing, electrical, and HVAC work is completed before finishes, work areas are sealed for dust control and cleaned daily, and debris removal and final cleaning are included in the contract. Homeowners receive warranty and manufacturer documentation at the final walk-through.

A full home renovation in Northern Virginia typically takes three to six months, depending on the number of rooms, structural work, permit review, material lead times, and whether the family stays in the home during construction.

The announcement follows the company’s recent update on bathroom remodeling in Tysons . Dzala serves Tysons, McLean, Vienna, Oakton, Great Falls, Arlington, Alexandria, and Falls Church in Virginia, plus Bethesda and Potomac in Maryland. Free consultations can be requested online or at (703) 919-1645.
