SHERIDAN, WY – September 24, 2026 – Furnirem Store , a family-led maker of handcrafted solid wood furniture, has expanded its line of butterfly-style table bases, giving homeowners, designers and DIY builders more ways to pair a sculptural wood base with a tabletop of their choosing.

The expansion follows the company’s recent launch of customizable Dining Table Set options and plywood dining tables, and extends the same made-to-order approach to individual bases. The butterfly table legs collection is built around a design in which the legs splay outward from a central column, creating a stable footprint while leaving open space beneath the table for seating and legroom.

The collection now includes six configurations. Dining-height options include a four-leg rectangle base for longer tables, a four-leg round base and a three-leg round base. A counter-height three-leg round base is available for kitchen islands and bar-style seating, while rectangle and round coffee-height bases serve living room applications. Multiple size options are offered within each model to match different tabletop dimensions.

Each base is handcrafted from sustainably sourced solid oak, walnut or pine and finished with water-based coatings. According to the company, the bases are compatible with a wide range of tops, including solid wood slabs, live edge timber, stone, plywood and tempered glass of 12 millimeters or thicker. Mounting hardware and pre-drilled holes are included, allowing customers to attach an existing tabletop or build a new table around the base.

The standalone bases are intended for customers who already own a tabletop they want to reuse, those working with a live edge slab or stone piece, and interior designers specifying custom tables for residential or hospitality projects. Because the base and top can be selected separately, the approach also allows a table to be updated later without replacing the entire piece.

Furnirem produces its furniture using FSC-certified wood sources, low-VOC sealants and flat-pack shipping designed to reduce transport emissions. The company offers free shipping to more than 30 countries, with typical delivery in 7 to 15 business days, and reports serving more than 10,000 customers worldwide with an average customer rating of 4.9.

The butterfly table leg collection is available now on the company’s website, alongside its dining tables, coffee tables, desks and other table base designs.
