Kitchen Design Center Fairfax · September 03, 2026

FAIRFAX, VA — September 3, 2026 — Kitchen Design Center (KDC) - Fairfax, a kitchen and bath remodeling company based in Fairfax, Virginia, today announced an expansion of its Kitchen Remodeling Fairfax services, adding new cabinetry lines, countertop materials, and design-build options for homeowners throughout Northern Virginia.

The expansion builds on KDC's existing design-build model, in which design, cabinetry, countertops, and installation are handled by a single in-house team rather than being divided among separate contractors. The company's Fairfax showroom now features an expanded selection of cabinetry from brands including StarMark, Fabuwood, Waypoint, Mantra, and J&K Cabinetry, alongside countertop materials such as quartz, granite, and marble from suppliers including Cambria, Silestone, MSI Surfaces, and Caesarstone.

According to the company, the updated Kitchen Remodeling Fairfax service line is intended to give homeowners more flexibility when planning a kitchen project, whether the scope involves a full layout change, a cabinet and countertop refresh, or a smaller update focused on storage and finishes. Projects begin with a design consultation at the Fairfax showroom, where homeowners can compare cabinet door styles, finishes, and countertop samples in person before committing to a plan.

KDC's design process includes templating and measurement for countertops, material and finish selection with a designer, fabrication, and installation, all coordinated internally. The company positions this structure as a way to reduce the coordination burden that often falls on homeowners when a kitchen remodel involves multiple outside vendors for design, cabinetry, and countertop work.

In addition to kitchen remodeling, Kitchen Design Center - Fairfax offers bathroom remodeling, custom cabinetry for closets, laundry rooms, mudrooms, home offices, and garages, as well as basement remodeling services. The company notes that many clients plan kitchen and bathroom projects together, and that having a single design and installation team can help keep material selections, such as cabinet finish and countertop color, consistent across multiple rooms.

For homeowners deciding between cabinet options, KDC's design team walks through the differences between fully custom cabinetry, semi-custom lines, and cabinet refacing, which allows existing cabinet boxes to be reused with new doors, drawer fronts, and hardware. This range of options is intended to give homeowners a choice that fits both their budget and the condition of their existing kitchen, rather than defaulting to a full replacement in every case.

Countertop selection follows a similar consultative approach. The company's design team discusses the differences between quartz, granite, and marble in terms of maintenance, appearance, and durability, and helps homeowners coordinate countertop material with cabinet finish, hardware, and backsplash choices. Once a material is selected, KDC's in-house team handles templating, fabrication, and installation, with the goal of producing a consistent fit and finish without relying on a separate countertop subcontractor.

Kitchen Design Center - Fairfax serves homeowners throughout Northern Virginia, including Vienna,

Oakton, McLean, Tysons, Annandale, Burke, Springfield, Centreville, Falls Church, Arlington, and Alexandria, in addition to Fairfax itself. The company has operated in the region for more than 25 years and describes its Fairfax location as both a design studio and a working showroom where homeowners can see cabinetry and countertop options before finalizing a project.

Homeowners interested in the updated Kitchen Remodeling Fairfax offerings can schedule a design consultation at the KDC showroom or contact Kitchen Design Center (KDC) - Fairfax directly to discuss project scope, timeline, and material options.
