NextDAY Cabinets hosted an advanced professional development training for the sales and dealer team for the Beltsville Showroom. This program was conducted at the company's headquarters in Chantilly, Virginia. Led by Sales Manager Dogan Goksoy, who boasts over ten years of experience, the training aimed to boost the team's knowledge in kitchen and bath solutions. Goksoy provided a thorough overview to improve the skills of the Maryland team.

The kitchen cabinet sales training covered NextDAY Cabinets' entire product range, including American-made brands like Shiloh and Wolf Home Products, as well as the assembled-in-America Forevermark line. The team also learned about other respected wholesale brands such as Mantra, Lineadecor, Golden Home, Marsh Furniture, Nations Cabinets, Waypoint, and Commercial Projects Cabinets. By gaining deeper insights and skills, the Beltsville team aims to give Maryland customers better guidance on quality and pricing.

A representative from the Beltsville Showroom noted, "Completing this sales training shows our dedication to offering the best service to our clients. What we learned about products and sales techniques will greatly enhance the customer experience."

With newly acquired skills, the Beltsville team can now offer better design consultations, project coordination, and comprehensive product advice.
