United Granite LLC Details In-House Custom Countertop Process

United Granite LLC

October 10, 2026

DURHAM, NC — October 10, 2026 — United Granite LLC, a family-owned stone fabricator serving the Raleigh-Durham Triangle since 2003, has outlined the step-by-step process behind its Custom Countertops , from the first consultation through final installation. The company handles every stage in-house at its Durham facility and states that it does not use subcontractors for measuring, fabrication, or installation.

According to the company, each project begins with a quote request, which receives a response within 24 hours, followed by a free in-home consultation. Homeowners then visit the Durham showroom to select material from more than 2,000 stone colors across granite, marble, quartzite, and engineered quartz, with more than 120 slabs kept in stock.

Because natural stones such as granite, marble, and quartzite vary from slab to slab, the showroom visit allows homeowners to see the color, veining, and movement of the material that will be installed in their home. Engineered quartz offers more consistent coloring for clients who prefer a uniform appearance across a larger kitchen.

Once a material is chosen, the team takes a laser digital measurement of the space. Before any stone is cut, United Granite prepares a digital layout that shows how the slab will be positioned and where seams will fall, and the homeowner approves that layout first. The company says this step helps clients see how veining and patterns will flow across islands, perimeter runs, and backsplashes before fabrication begins.

Fabrication is completed on CNC equipment in the company's Durham shop and typically takes 10 to 15 days. Installation usually takes one to two days. United Granite also supplies kitchen sinks, and its quotes are presented as all-inclusive, without separate add-on fees.

The process applies to kitchen countertops and islands, bathroom vanities, bar tops, and other residential and commercial stone surfaces. As an authorized dealer for Cambria, Silestone, Caesarstone, and MSI, United Granite supports the manufacturer warranties offered by those brands and provides a warranty registration page on its website.

The announcement follows the company's recent expansion of its Quartz Countertops selection, which added several national engineered quartz brands to its Durham showroom. Homeowners can compare quartz side by side with natural stone during the same showroom visit.

United Granite reports more than 500 completed projects and a 4.7-star rating on Google. The company serves Durham, Raleigh, Cary, Apex, Chapel Hill, Wake Forest, Morrisville, Holly Springs, Garner, Clayton, Fuquay-Varina, Knightdale, Carrboro, Hillsborough, Pittsboro, Burlington, and Mebane.

The showroom is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Quote requests and showroom details are available on the company's website.

United Granite LLC is a licensed, insured, family-owned stone fabrication company based in Durham, North Carolina, founded in 2003. The company supplies, fabricates, and installs granite, quartz, marble, and quartzite countertops, vanities, and stone surfaces for residential and commercial projects across the Triangle.
